

Interblock's Universal Cabinet SicBo has quickly become one of the most in-demand electronic table games in the Asia-Pacific region. As of mid-2025, over 400 units have been installed, with the strongest market presence in Macau and Singapore. These results reflect both the high level of player interest and operator confidence in this modern take on the traditional dice game.

This version of SicBo is built on Interblock's award-winning Universal Cabinet platform, which combines sleek, compact design with advanced modular capabilities. The cabinet's small footprint allows seamless placement into a wide range of casino floor configurations, while its built-in adaptability supports various market preferences and operational models. Operators can connect it to either live dealers or automated generators, making it a flexible and space-efficient solution for integrated resorts.

The gameplay itself delivers a fast-paced, high-energy experience designed for today's players. Dynamic betting options, quick result cycles, and game modes tailored to different player styles have helped drive continued adoption across high-volume casino environments. The product also includes a signature Dice Shaker feature, which introduces an elevated layer of engagement while maintaining the integrity of random, chance-based results.

As part of Interblock's ongoing platform evolution, Universal Cabinet SicBo can also be optionally configured with Immersion Technology – a high-impact LED signage and surround-sound package designed to enhance visual appeal and player immersion. While not standard, this upgrade provides an additional layer of spectacle and floor visibility for properties that wish to elevate their presentation.

Interblock's consistent investment in both innovation and regional customization has positioned the company as a leader in Asia-Pacific's ETG space. With strong installation performance, high operator satisfaction, and a product design that aligns with both gaming regulations and entertainment-driven strategies, Universal Cabinet SicBo is a proven solution poised to shape the future of electronic table games across the region.
